

I am totally opposed to changing the IN law protecting individuals' privacy!! I don't need all these people calling me. I don't have the money to buy anything anyway, I am elderly, and I live alone. I don't need my privacy or my safety lessened!!!

These telephone marketers ask too many questions (like how many in household) and you don't know who you can trust or where they live. For example, when I call my internet provider, I'm talking to someone in India!! I don't need this or want it!!! These employees are not usually properly screened, and even if they were, they could still hire a nutcase. Some companies even go so far as to hire prison inmates who have friends on the outside. I don't want my privacy invaded, or my safety threatened!!! Please leave the IN telephone privacy law alone!!!

Thank you,
Janet Taylor
